2 How to use this pack

Ready-to-publish copy blocks, written from what the record actually shows. Every feature named below is evidenced in the property's photograph file, so nothing here can be contradicted by a guest on arrival. 3 Headline options

HEADLINE	WHAT IT LEADS WITH
Sea and mountain views, quiet street, serious kitchen	The view and the kitchen — the two strongest recorded features
Atlantic Seaboard villa — braai, sea views, minutes to Camps Bay	Location and the outdoor entertaining angle
Quiet Atlantic Seaboard home with ocean views and a chef's kitchen	The owner-disclosed quiet, which is rare on this coast
Ocean-view home with terraced vineyard garden and gas braai	The garden, which almost no comparable listing has
Two en-suite bedrooms — ocean view from one, Lion's Head from the other	The true 2-bed, 2-bath position and the two different views

4 Long description — Airbnb

Wake up to the open Atlantic and the Twelve Apostles. This is a premium two-bedroom, two-bathroom villa-style home on Cape Town's Atlantic Seaboard, a couple of minutes from Bakoven and Camps Bay beach, in a street the owner describes — accurately — as very quiet and peaceful.

The living and dining room is one bright open space behind plantation shutters, with a solid-wood table that seats a crowd, a sofa and two armchairs, and a wall-mounted television. It opens onto a decked patio with an outdoor dining table, a hanging egg chair and a Megamaster gas braai, looking out over a terraced garden of trellised grapevines and lavender to the sea beyond.

The kitchen is the real surprise: near-new and properly fitted, with a Bosch French-door fridge/freezer, a Bosch Serie 4 dishwasher, a Whirlpool oven and gas hob under a stainless extractor, a Samsung microwave, a Nespresso machine, a Haden kettle and toaster and a NutriBullet. There is a full matched dinner service, wine glasses and champagne flutes, Pyrex oven dishes, good knives and a flatware service sized for a full table — this is a house you can genuinely cook and entertain in.

Both bedrooms are doubles and both have their own bathroom, so nobody shares. The primary bedroom faces the sea, with a dressed bed, a sliding-door wardrobe and an en suite with a bath and a separate frameless glass shower. The second bedroom looks out over mature palms and the garden to Lion's Head — the kind of view most people come to Cape Town for — and has a curved upholstered bed, a mirrored built-in wardrobe, a desk under a round mirror and a walk-in dressing cupboard with a fitted safe for passports and valuables. Its own walk-in shower room opens off that cupboard. Both bedrooms have a work desk and mesh WiFi, so two people can work without getting in each other's way.

Underfloor heating and split-system air-conditioning keep the house comfortable in any season, and a monitored CCTV and alarm system with armed response covers the property. There is covered parking and a garage, and the house carries its own battery backup, so the lights and the WiFi stay on.

Camps Bay's restaurant strip is three to five minutes away, Clifton ten, and both the city centre and the V&A Waterfront are inside twenty minutes. Lion's Head, the cableway, Chapman's Peak and the Constantia wine estates are all an easy morning out.
