A Home That Helps Pay For Itself

Green Point, Cape Town — live above, and let the self-contained apartment below pay down your bond.

PROPERTY

Green Point, Cape Town

ASKING PRICE

R20,000,000

INCOME UNIT

2-bedroom apartment

APARTMENT INCOME

~R1.0m / year

1 The opportunity

A R20-million home with a built-in income.

You live in the main house above. Below it sits a self-contained two-bedroom apartment that already operates as a successful short-term rental, generating roughly R1,000,000 a year. Put that income to work against your bond and this is not simply a R20-million home — it is a home that helps pay for itself, on top of the Atlantic and city views, private pool and entertaining terraces the property is known for.

2 At a glance

R20.0m ASKING PRICE	~R1.0m APARTMENT INCOME / YR	~10.5% ILLUSTRATIVE PRIME	~9 yrs BOND PAID (VS 20)

3 Two ways the apartment works for you

STRATEGY	WHAT IT DOES	RESULT
Lower your monthly cost	Use the income to offset your bond instalment	~42% OF THE BOND COVERED
Pay the home off early	Add the income to your bond as extra capital	CLEAR IN ~9 YRS • SAVE R16,630,142

4 What the income does to your bond

Illustrative: R20m bond at 10.5% over 20 years. Applying the apartment's ~R1m/year as extra capital clears the bond in about 9 years instead of 20.

5 The numbers

ITEM	VALUE
Purchase / bond (illustrative 100%)	R20,000,000
Interest rate (illustrative prime)	10.5%
Standard bond instalment	R199,676 / month
Apartment income applied	R1,000,000 / year (~R83,333/mo)
Time to clear the bond	~9.2 years (vs 20)
Interest saved over the bond	R16,630,142
Or – effective net cost to own	~R116,343 / month
Bottom line	A R20m home, largely paid for by its own apartment

6 Why the income is credible

The apartment is an established, well-reviewed short-term let in one of Cape Town's strongest rental nodes, with sea-and-city views, a private pool and walkability to the Promenade and V&A Waterfront. Full inventory, condition and income documentation is available on request.

Illustration only – not financial advice or an offer. Figures assume a 100% bond of R20,000,000 at an illustrative prime rate of 10.5% over 20 years, with the apartment's net income of R1,000,000/year applied in full as additional capital, no rate changes and no rental escalation; a deposit, lower rate or income growth would improve the outcome. Rental income is not guaranteed and depends on occupancy and costs. Confirm your actual rate, terms and affordability with your bank, and seek independent financial advice.
